EUCCHARISTIC MEDITATION

GEORG VON ANHALT

FOURTH SERMON ON THE HOLY SACRAMENT OF THE ALTAR (1549)

It was highly necessary to instruct the people that the true worship and honour of Christ and of his Holy Sacrament does not consist in such external gestures or services alone, also that our dear Lord Christ did not institute this venerable Sacrament for the sake of seeing and worshipping or being present there for that purpose, but so that we would partake of it, as the Lord's words say, "Take, eat; take, drink," etc. These words have power and avail so much as to say, "This is My body; this is My blood; this do in remembrance of Me." ... Therefore, the Word is most important, through the power of which, from the institution of the Lord, the true body and blood of Christ are there. The Word teaches us what kind of treasure we have there, what we should use it for, and why Christ is there, so that true invocation and spiritual worship are enkindled in us.

Now, here we are not saying that one should not worship our dear Lord Jesus Christ in this Sacrament, being present, or that one should not hold this Sacrament with all honour and reverence. On the contrary, since these divine, almighty, true words are believed, all of this follows of itself, and not only in external gestures but also both externally and, first and foremost, in the heart, spirit, and truth. On account of this, such adoration of Christ is not thereby cancelled, but much rather, confirmed. For where the Word is rightly seen, considered, and believed, the adoration of the Sacrament will happen of itself. For whoever believes that Christ's body and blood are there (as there is plenty of evidence so to believe, and it is necessary so to believe), he cannot, to be sure, deny his reverence to the body and blood of Christ without sin. For I must confess that Christ is there when His body and blood are there. His words do not lie to me, and He is not separate from His body and blood.

Africanus Comes, Pzepofitus wazdeburgensis.

Georg III of Anhalt-Dessau (1507–53) was a German prince and priest who began his life in the ministry as an opponent of the Reformation but who by 1530 had become a Lutheran. From 1542 onwards, he also served as bishop. His life and work were marked both by profound personal piety and by a great desire for unity and peace, as a result of which he went about the reformation of the church in his principality carefully, avoiding unnecessary changes and unnecessary quarrels. The sermon from which this extract is taken was written to strengthen the Lutherans in his lands in the face of coming persecution. After it was written, he retired.

Youth Rally—Meal after Church

The eleven youngsters plus two of the leaders attending the youth rally will be joining us for worship on Sunday 26 February. They will travel home after the service.

It is customary for the hosting congregation to feed the youth before they set off for their journeys home. It would be lovely if we as many members as possible were able to stay behind after church for a sandwich lunch with the youth. A sign-up sheet will be posted next week.
